

Homework N: HTML Forms

May 18, 2013

1 Life Skills

I've set up a form at [url]. Your job is to get

2 Moral thinking

What you're doing here is a sort of baby cross site request forgery attack.

Note: In this exercise we do something that can be used to subvert the intended use of a web form. Most of the time for forms that are as unprotected as this one, this will annoy the people who set up the form. In other cases, you can cause damage to someone's project. Employ maturity when using these skills.

On that note, please do not automate your form to continually submit to my form. It will annoy me and hamper me in grading your assignment.

3 Engineering

As you can see, it's pretty easy to do this simple attack. Luckily for law and order, and for every organization that runs complex web pages, there are simple ways to defend against this attack.